

A Treasure Chest of Potential New Hires

As DAU continues to broaden its recruitment and hiring considerations...here are two new avenues we are researching to announce job opportunities for DAU.

1) Hiring Heroes – The Department of Defense values the contributions and sacrifices of our service members and realizes the knowledge, skills, and dedication they can bring to civilian positions after military service. This is a broad outreach program to help injured service members and their spouses find employment. DAU can participate in the Hiring Heroes Career Fairs being held all over the United States by providing DAU announcements to the Civilian Personnel Management Service Office to be shared at the Career Fairs. This program is a win-win situation for all. DAU stands to support the Department of Defense effort to be a model for helping injured service members transition into civilian life.

2) For Military transitioning to the Civilian Sector
Soldiers 4 Hire www.soldiers4hire.com handles Internet advertising and can help DAU unite with qualified candidates in a variety of career areas. The military pays their relocation and interviewing expenses.

Civilian jobs are sought by many military candidates who are currently being released from their tour of duty. This website is viewed by both those that are stationed state-side and abroad. The mission of Soldiers4hire is to reach all qualified and experienced candidates who are seeking civilian careers so that organizations can employ highly skilled and disciplined professionals for our job openings.

Military candidates can also find other information from this website such as relocation, benefits and other necessary resources. In addition, other links are posted with many Department of Defense (DoD) websites, which provides government and military resources to all separating military personnel and their families. The ads are viewed by all Military Installation Centers, Employment Readiness Centers, Military Transition Centers, and Command Centers and Career Guidance Counselors, just to name a few.

Job postings are exposed to every branch of the military, Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, Coast Guard and Reservists.

Once we have finalized the coordination on these sites, anyone interested in having their announcements posted to one or both of the sites will indicate their choices on the recruit/fill form under the Management: Identify Recruitment Source(s) – Other special recruitment request.
